

Strain Review:

BLUE DREAM

LIFE'S A DREAM, SMOKE IT UP

IT'S THE PERFECT
SETTING: SUNNY DAY,
HEADPHONES ON,
JOINT IN HAND,
DAYDREAMING ABOUT
EVERYTHING AND NOTHING AT THE SAME TIME.
THAT IS WHERE BLUE
DREAM WILL TAKE YOU.
PURE BLISS.

A high from the Blue Dream strain makes you feel like you're up in the clouds. Above all the BS in life. You're getting work done and making stuff happen. Putting life in motion. Living the dream, with nothing but clear blue skies ahead.

Blue Dream is a member of the sativa species of Cannabis. A sativa high tends to involve more thinking, productivity, and increased energy in general. Significant levels of pain and nausea are usually also curbed. And while an indica strain will help you to relax, de-stress, chill out, and/or overcome insomnia, a pure sativa like this should inspire exercise, a deep conversation, or an ambitious to-do list.

Fits of laughter and an overwhelming sense of well being are some other nice side effects. (Why is this stuff illegal again?)

The physical characteristics of this strain consist of copious red hairs and crystals with a moderately sticky and dense feel. The smell is pungent and dank, a smell that almost gives you a high on its own. Blue Dream is very sweet, both before and after ingestion. It has an undeniable fruitiness.

The blue part of its name likely comes from its partial roots in the blueberry strain. Dream is a somewhat odd choice of words, considering sleep is not often a part of the package. Day dreaming was probably the inspiration. Alternatively, with an indica you're likely to dream while sleeping, although you probably won't remember those dreams upon awakening.

On the darker side of the Blue Dream, and sativa for that matter, many people become overwhelmed with paranoia, anxiety, and an increased heart rate. This can be a bit frightening, but shouldn't last more than 10-15 minutes. An indica's negatives would likely point towards laziness, forgetfulness, and a lack of motivation. Depending on what you're needing, these negatives can quickly become refreshing positives.

Marijuana is a person-to-person, situation-to-situation, strain-to-strain experience. Your high will often depend on the mental state, physical condition, and environment you're in when you smoke. And of course, one's genetic makeup can also play a role. But when everything is right and you're in the right mood, the experience is a very pleasant one.

There's a very pleasant experience in store for the Blue Dream smoker. It's a high that's both uplifting and relaxing. It's a high that's both productive and relaxing. It's a high that's both uplifting and relaxing.

It's a high that's both uplifting and relaxing. It's a high that's both productive and relaxing. It's a high that's both uplifting and relaxing.